OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The 10-year benchmark US Treasuries rose by about 26 basis points in January to 1.77%.

US consumer prices rose by 7% year-on-year in December as food, energy, and housing prices continue to rise; the transitory inflation narrative no longer seeming to hold. The US economy grew faster than expected at 6.9% in Q4 2021 driven by consumer and business spending, despite the rapid spread of the milder Omicron COVID-19 variant. In its January Federal Open Market Committee meeting, the US Federal Reserve announced it would wind down its bond-buying program at a faster pace than first outlined at the previous meeting in early November citing risks from inflation, putting the central bank on track to conclude its purchases in March. US Treasury yields continue to rise as investor expectations of policy tightening continue to grow, with a policy rate hike largely expected by March.

Fund Performance. The Fund returned -0.25% for the month, underperforming its benchmark by 34 basis points. Year-to-date, return amounted to -0.25%, underperforming its benchmark by 34 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The fund will maintain its current duration. Investors in the bond fund must be prepared to withstand short-term volatility as higher investment value is normally achieved over the medium- to long-term.
