OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The Philippine Stock Exchange (PSEi) posted a 0.65% gain in May to close at 6,774.68. This is despite the market dipping to a low of 6,379.17 mid-May, translating to a 5.23% decline, amidst a volatile trading month. Global economic factors, namely inflation concerns and rising interest rates, continued to negatively influence the local stock market. Meanwhile, the 2022 presidential election finally concluded with Ferdinand Marcos, Jr. winning in a landslide victory.

The Philippine economy expanded 8.3 % year-on-year in the first quarter of 2022, a significant reversal from the 3.8% contraction in the same period of 2021. This latest figure of economic development already surpassed pre-pandemic growth recorded in 2019, led by domestic consumption which grew by 10%, as mobility restrictions were relaxed.

April inflation spiked to 4.9%, going above expectations, as rising food and oil prices continued to put upward pressure on the overall inflation print. The BSP expects inflation to hover above 5% until the third quarter of 2022 amid high commodity prices and the unpredictability of the ongoing Russia-Ukraine war. As such, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas raised its policy interest rate by 25bps to 2.25% and looks poised to do more rate hikes for the remainder of the year.

For the month, the Philippine Peso slightly depreciated versus the US Dollar to P52.39, or P0.20 higher than last month's P52.19. Foreigners were sellers for a third consecutive month, with US$350m exiting in May. Year-to-date, net foreign outflow stands at US$569m

Top gainers for the month were MONDE (+14.02%), GLO (+8.29%), and MBT (+7.63%), while worst performers included SECB (-10.39%), AGI (-9.48%), and EMP (-8.41%).

The country's re-opening theme continues to play out as evidenced by the latest GDP print. Looser mobility restrictions should continue to provide healthy support for income generation for both consumers and corporates. However, economic uncertainty and market volatility are likely to remain elevated in the near-term due to concerns on inflation, with commodity prices persistently moving higher. Outside of inflation, investors will look to focus on key government appointments following the elections and what the plan is to jumpstart the economy coming out of the pandemic, as well as how the economic and business landscape is going to be like for the next six years.

Fund Performance. The Fund returned 1.02% for the month, beating its benchmark by 41 basis points. Year-to-date, return amounted to -3.96%, outperforming its benchmark by 34 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The Fund will look to adopt a more defensive stance during this volatile period, preferring stocks with decent dividend yields. The Fund will also look to continue accumulating select names that could benefit from a higher interest rate environment.
