OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. In January 2025, international fixed income investments performed well, with the Bloomberg Aggregate Bond Index (Global) up 0.93% and JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) up 0.22% year-to-date. This was due to lower yields from softer-than-expected US inflation and comments from the Federal Reserve (Fed) official about possible rate cuts. However, mixed messages from other Fed officials, including Fed Chair Jerome Powell, who saw no rush for rate cuts, tempered gains. The US economy grew slower than expected in the last quarter of 2024, but consumer spending remained strong. Inflation rose slightly, driven by higher energy costs, but core inflation showed signs of cooling. The Fed kept its interest rates steady, with the Chair emphasizing the need to monitor economic data before making further changes.

Fund Performance. The Fund returned 0.26% for the month, underperforming its benchmark by 57 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The fund will maintain its current duration given the possible upside risks to global inflation.
