OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) Philippines fell by 1.73% in August as Philippine dollar-denominated bond yields mimicked the losses in US Treasuries.

US Treasury yields ended the month higher driven by the long end of the curve. US economic data figures came out weaker than expected with headline Consumer Price Index (CPI) printing at +5.3% year-on-year, the smallest in seven months. Labor also looked softer with 235,000 jobs added to the economy. The Federal Reserve (FED) announced that it will potentially soon begin to taper its asset purchase program, with purchases set to end by mid-2022. FED officials revised upward their rate hike projections during their meeting last September 22. The median estimate is now at least 1 rate hike in 2022 followed by 2 more hikes in 2023. The FED recently downgraded its median GDP growth estimate in 2021 to 5.9% from 7.0%. The revised pace of projected rate increases was faster than the market had originally priced in, resulting to a rise in yields. The 10-year US Treasury benchmark yield ended the month at 1.492% (+19 basis points MoM).

In the local economic space, August inflation rose 4.9% year-on-year, compared to July's 4.0% and higher than the median forecast. The figure marks another month that inflation has been higher than the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas' (BSP) target band of 2-4% for the year. During its Monetary Board meeting held last September 23, the BSP hiked its average inflation forecasts to 4.4% for 2021, 3.3% for 2022, and 3.2% for 2023. The central bank reiterated that they are ready to take appropriate measures to ensure that the monetary policy is in line with its mandate. The Bureau of Treasury had its maiden issuance of the Retail Dollar Bond (RDB) this month. On the first day of its offering, the government sold $551.8 million of 5Y paper at 1.375% and $314.4 million of 10Y paper at 2.25%.

Fund Performance. The Fund declined by 0.09% in September, below its benchmark by 9 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The fund will maintain its duration of less than 1 and will continuously look into corporate bonds for yield enhancement.
