OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equity markets started December under pressure due to escalating concerns over rising Omicron variant cases globally, the Federal Reserve's hawkish pivot and the rejection of Biden's USD $2 Trillion economic agenda. Markets continued to be volatile for the whole month but finished the year on a positive note as sentiment improved driven by strong holiday sales and research reports that Omicron may be milder than expected.

In an effort to combat inflation, the Federal Reserve kept rates steady but doubled the pace of tapering their asset purchases with plans to end the bond-buying program by early 2022 instead of mid-year. Officials also forecasted a faster pace of rate hikes with the dot plot reflecting a median forecast of three rate hikes in 2022, another three in 2023 and two in 2024. The US central bank's hawkish pivot comes in contrast to the policy direction of China as its central bank cuts its reserve requirement ratio by 0.5% to support the country's stalling growth. The country's top officials also pledged to stabilize the economy in 2022 by increasing fiscal spending.

In commodity markets, oil prices remained volatile as the deepening energy shortage in Europe provided support while headwinds persisted in the form of continued weaker demand from the resurgence of the Omicron variant and expected slower economic growth.

Fund Performance. The fund returned -2.59% in December, lagging the benchmark by 458 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The recent concerns over rising interest rates and inflation have put pressure on technology stocks in the short-term, but the technology sector continues to be underpinned by strong fundamentals and powerful, long-term secular growth drivers. The Fund will continue to focus on long-term secular themes, many of which are experiencing increased demand as enterprises push for modernization and digitalization, while also taking advantage of attractive valuations of cyclical names which are expected to benefit as the market recovers. The fund will maintain its exposure to trends whose pace of adoption have accelerated due to social distance and migration to remote work, such as cloud computing, e-commerce and gaming.
