OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. European equity markets gained in November as sentiment improved amid expectations of a slower pace of hikes from the Federal Reserve and the European Central Bank. Equity markets were also bolstered with hopes of China's reopening, providing support to European companies that are linked to the Chinese economy. Annual headline inflation in the Eurozone rose slower-than-expected at 10.0% in November. Prices remained high driven by high energy and food prices. Eurozone's business activity remained weak over the month amid tighter financial conditions and cost-of-living crisis but improved PMI levels in November reflect softening demand and easing supply and price pressures.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 10.27% in November, lagging the benchmark by 61 basis points. Sector allocation in consumer discretionary and information technology detracted from performance.

Fund Strategy. We continue to see heightened volatility, high energy prices, supply chain challenges and geopolitical risks. We are monitoring how central banks and governments are tackling high inflation and recessionary risks, and how the impact of energy and gas supplies will affect the economic situation in Europe. The fund will continue to invest in companies with compelling structural growth, solid competitive positioning and attractive valuations, which can potentially lead to higher returns and help mitigate downside risk given the current market environment.
