The BPI Invest Philippine Dollar Bond Index Fund is suitable only for investors who:

- Are at least classified as aggressive based on their risk profile
- Have an investment horizon of more than five (5) years

KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Interest Rate Risk: The fund invests in a portfolio of Philippine Sovereign and corporate securities comprising the JP Morgan Asia Credit Philippines Total Return Index, exposing investors to the risk of loss arising from a rise in interest rates, which generally causes fixed income security prices to decline. Factors/ events that may lead to a rise interest rates include adverse market conditions, issuer-specific factors/ events and/ or negative developments in domestic and global political and economic conditions.

Liquidity Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the fund's inability to convert security holdings to cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a highly disadvantageous price due to limited buyers/ sellers in the market, low trading volumes or market disruptions, among other reasons/ factors.

Related Party Risk: Investors are exposed to actual or potential conflicts of interest in the handling of related party transactions by the Trustee, specifically, the execution of trade transactions with related counterparties.

Credit/Default Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the failure of the borrower/ debt issuer to make timely interest and/ or principal payments on its deposit liabilities, loans, bonds or other debt instruments due to a deterioration in the borrower's/ issuer's financial condition or external factors and events that may affect its ability to repay financial obligations such as negative developments in domestic and global political and economic conditions.

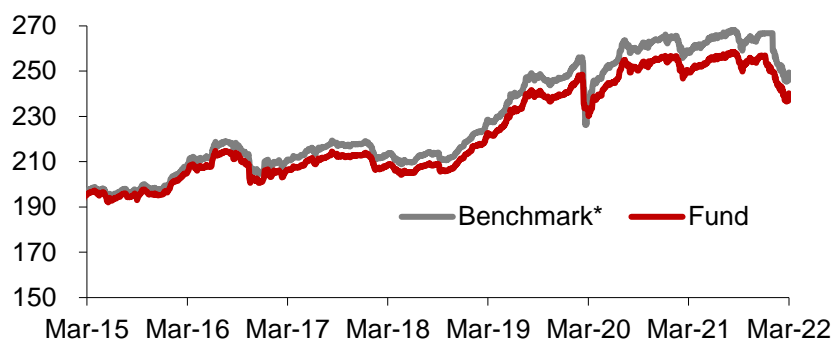

Index Tracking Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of not being able to achieve a level of return that matches the index being tracked by the fund due primarily to operating and fund management expenses.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) Philippines lost 0.29% in March as Philippine dollar-denominated bonds continued to track the sell-off in US Treasuries.

It was another volatile month for global markets as the Russia-Ukraine tensions persisted, with little to no progress on peace talks held. While central banks around the world acknowledged potential growth risks from this, the general narrative was that inflation was no longer transitory, and that tighter monetary policy was needed. During its FOMC policy meeting, the US Federal Reserve hiked its policy rate by 25 basis points for the first time since 2018, and penciled in six more for the remaining meetings within 2022. Adding further to the hawkish tone, Fed Chair Jerome Powell hinted that the central bank's balance sheet reduction could begin as early as May. Bond markets reacted strongly to these statements, with the 2-year US Treasury (UST) yield rising to 2.36% near the 10-year UST's 2.39% level. Meanwhile the 3-year UST yield hit 2.55%, forming a yield curve inversion that indicated worries of an impending recession. Over the month of March, the benchmark 10-year US Treasury yield rose to as high as 2.47%, before closing the month at the 2.34% level.

In the local economic space, February inflation was steady at 3.0% year-on-year, with slower food inflation as well as a more muted rise in utility costs. The figure was comfortably within the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas' (BSP) target range of 2-4% for the year. However, the BSP warned that with fuel costs rising as a consequence of geopolitical tensions, inflation may breach the target before the end of the second quarter. The BSP will continue to monitor economic data and adjust policy settings as needed.

Fund Performance. The fund returned -0.43% in March, underperforming its benchmark by 14 bps. Year-to-date, it outperformed the benchmark by 7 basis points with a return of -6.38%.

Fund Strategy. The Fund will continue to closely track the JPMorgan Asia Credit Total Return Index. Investors in a bond fund must be prepared to withstand volatility as higher investment value is typically achieved over the medium to long term.
