OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equity markets tumbled in April as persistently high inflation, hawkish rhetoric from central banks, geopolitical tensions, and global supply chain disruptions weighed on economic growth. The Federal Reserve and ECB reiterated their commitments to curbing inflation and scaling back pandemic stimulative measures raising investor expectations for a more aggressive monetary policy plan. Fed Chair Jerome Powell expressed his support for a half percentage point rate hike in the May FOMC meeting amid downside risks to economic growth.

Economic data was mixed but inflationary pressures remained elevated. US and Eurozone PMIs still signaled a strong expansion in business activity. US jobs data stayed robust as non-farm payrolls increased by 428,000 jobs. However, US headline inflation was 8.5% for the year ending in March 2022, its highest reading since 1981. Soaring commodity prices remained the main driver of runaway inflation. Commodity prices are elevated due to the Ukraine-Russia conflict and an increase in demand from reopening economies.

China continued to grapple with its latest Omicron surge and remained under strict lockdown to contain the outbreak. Its strict COVID-zero policy affected growth and production, exacerbating the ongoing supply chain disruptions across the globe. China's PMI signaled a contraction for two months in a row, with the composite PMI declining to 42.7 in April, its lowest level since the start of the pandemic.

Fund Performance. The fund returned -7.52%, outperforming the benchmark by 62 basis points. Stock selection helped performance.

Fund Strategy. Due to recent geopolitical events, inflation will impact every sector of the economy in 2022 and identifying companies able to thrive in this new environment is likely to be increasingly important. In navigating this period, some of the major structural trends that had been occurring previously have accelerated; such as the increasing market share of electric vehicles sold, increased recycled content in clothing and packaging, and record installations of wind turbines and solar panels. The recent Russia-Ukraine war has resulted in the world, particularly Europe, determined to reduce their reliance on traditional sources of energy such as oil and gas, requiring large investments in renewable energy in the coming years. We believe that strong ESG companies are likely to generate positive financial performance over time as investing in sustainability can deliver higher growth and returns through innovation, higher operational efficiency and better risk management.
