OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equity markets sold off in September, driven by elevated inflation, a rising interest rate environment, and mounting risks of a global slowdown. Inflation prints remained high, with US and EU CPI posting at 8.3% and 9.1% year-on-year in August, respectively. Global central banks maintained their aggressive monetary policy tightening to curb the persistently high inflation. The US Federal Reserve and European Central Bank raised their policy rates by 75 basis points in September. Markets are also pricing in more rate hikes in the future as core inflation continues to post above targets. Growth stocks led the laggards due to expectations of a sustained tightening monetary policy, keeping the pressure on global equity markets.

Economic data indicators were mixed over the month. US business activity improved but stayed in the contraction territory supported by new orders in the manufacturing sector and improvement in the services sector. The US labor market remained tight as nonfarm payrolls increased by 263,000, and the unemployment rate declined to 3.5% for the month. Eurozone's factory activity declined in September as elevated input and energy prices weighed on production. China's manufacturing sector showed improvement and returned to expansion. However, the economy continued to be under pressure due to renewed lockdowns and escalating concerns in the property sector.

Fund Performance. The fund returned -9.49%, outperforming the benchmark by 25 basis points. Security selection helped performance.

Fund Strategy. Inflation will impact every sector of the economy in 2022 and identifying companies able to thrive in this new environment is likely to be increasingly important. In navigating this period, some of the major structural trends that had been occurring previously have accelerated; such as the increasing market share of electric vehicles sold, increased recycled content in clothing and packaging, and record installations of wind turbines and solar panels. The recent Russia-Ukraine war has resulted in the world, particularly Europe, determined to reduce their reliance on traditional sources of energy such as oil and gas, requiring large investments in renewable energy in the coming years. We believe that strong ESG companies are likely to generate positive financial performance over time as investing in sustainability can deliver higher growth and returns through innovation, higher operational efficiency and better risk management.
