OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equity markets sold off in January due to continued concerns over elevated inflation and the Federal Reserve's rate hike plan. Geopolitical tensions between US and Russia over Ukraine also weakened investor sentiment and drove the volatility in equity markets. Growth stocks led the laggards as expectations of rising interest rates led to concerns on tighter liquidity and higher financing cost. The Federal Reserve kept rates unchanged but remained on target with its plan to end its bond-buying program in March. The committee implied a more aggressive tightening monetary policy as it expects to increase interest rates and reduce its balance sheet sooner than later. Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell supported this move by emphasizing the economy's high inflation and strong labor market. Economic data was mixed across regions. US manufacturing PMI continued to signal a strong expansion in economic activity while the services sector displayed a sharp decrease in economic activity, attributable to the spillover effect of the Omicron wave. In Europe, economic activity was flat due to the limited impact of Omicron as restrictions remained in place. Meanwhile, in China, weak domestic demand persisted as strong lockdown measures and supply chain issues weighed on consumption. In commodity markets, supply shortages and geopolitical tensions in Russia ramped up oil and gas prices. Brent oil reached $90 a barrel for the first time since October 2014.

Fund Performance. The fund returned -16.71% in January, lagging the benchmark by 853 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The recent concerns over rising interest rates and inflation have put pressure on technology stocks in the short-term, but the technology sector continues to be underpinned by strong fundamentals and powerful, long-term secular growth drivers. The Fund will continue to focus on long-term secular themes, many of which are experiencing increased demand as enterprises push for modernization and digitalization, while also taking advantage of attractive valuations of cyclical names which are expected to benefit as the market recovers. The fund will maintain its exposure to trends whose pace of adoption have accelerated due to social distance and migration to remote work, such as cloud computing, e-commerce and gaming.
