OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equity markets continued to be volatile in May as tightening monetary policy, inflation concerns and geopolitical tensions continued to dominate headlines. Global central banks continued their hawkish stance to curb high inflation. The Federal Reserve raised interest rates by half a percentage point and announced the start of quantitative tightening in June. Inflationary pressures remained and global economies are still posting their multi-year inflation highs. Crude prices soared as EU leaders agreed to ban imports of Russian oil as part of their sanctions package. In China, sentiment improved as officials announced the reopening of Shanghai and unveiled a list of measures to boost the economy.

The technology sector underperformed broad equity markets as the MSCI ACWI IT Index returned -1.0% in USD. China's Zero-COVID policy and high energy prices added pressure on the ongoing supply chain and production issues across the sector.

Fund Performance. The fund returned -7.49% in May, lagging the benchmark by 646 basis points. Stock selection in Software and allocation in the Internet subsector detracted from performance.

Fund Strategy. The recent concerns over rising interest rates and inflation have put pressure on technology stocks in the short-term, but the technology sector continues to be underpinned by strong fundamentals and powerful, long-term secular growth drivers. The Fund will continue to focus on long-term secular themes, many of which are experiencing increased demand as enterprises push for modernization and digitalization. The fund will maintain its exposure to trends whose pace of adoption have accelerated due to social distance and migration to remote work, such as cloud computing, e-commerce and gaming, as many of these companies are likely to benefit from increased adoption from both enterprises and consumers.
