OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) Philippines rose by 1.01% in May as Philippine dollar-denominated bonds continued to track the recovery in US Treasuries. ROP yields fell by an average of 13.9 basis points month-on-month.

During their Federal Open Market Committee meeting for the month, the Federal Reserve (Fed) raised US benchmark rates by 50 basis points. This move was largely in line with market expectations, especially since investors had begun pricing in multiple rate hikes for 2022 as early as the beginning of the year. Fed Chair Jerome Powell had become increasingly hawkish over the course of the month, stating that the Committee would not hesitate to raise rates in order to combat inflationary pressures. US headline inflation printed at 8.3% year-on-year, well above the central bank target of 2% over the longer term. However, the Fed's overall hawkish stance sparked concerns from the market that growth may be challenged in the near term. This caused some volatility in rates, with the 10-year US Treasury benchmark yield rising as high as 3.03% in early May, before closing the month at the 2.84% level.

In the local economic space, inflation for the month of April came in at 4.9% year-on-year, the fastest rate since January 2019. This was on the back of rising food and fuel costs, as geopolitical tensions in Russia and Ukraine continue to keep oil prices elevated. Meanwhile GDP growth for the first quarter of 2022 came in above consensus estimates at 8.3% year-on-year driven by private consumption amid economic reopening. Thus, the BSP raised policy rates by 25 basis points during their May Monetary Policy Meeting. The central bank will continue to monitor economic data and adjust policy settings as needed.

Fund Performance. The Fund lost 0.2% for the month, below its benchmark by 121 basis points. In term of YTD performance, the fund returned -8.27%, outperforming benchmark by 121 bps.

Fund Strategy. The Fund looks to maintain a neutral duration position and opportunistically add exposure to corporate issuers to enhance yield. Global events remain likely to add volatility. Investors in a bond fund must be prepared to withstand volatility as higher investment value is typically achieved over the medium to long term.
