KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Market/Price Risk:	Investors are exposed to adverse changes in the prices of large cap stocks in the Eurozone, which may be brought about by adverse market conditions, unfavorable company earnings and valuations, and negative developments in the political and economic conditions of countries where investee companies are domiciled.
Liquidity Risk:	Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the target fund's inability to convert security holdings to cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a highly disadvantageous price due to limited participants in the market, low trading volumes, market disruptions, among others.
Country Risk:	Investors are exposed to the risk of loss arising from negative developments in the political, economic and social conditions of countries, primarily in Europe, which may adversely affect the value of the feeder fund.
FX Risk:	Investors are exposed to the risk of loss from a decline in the market value of the target fund when the market value of foreign currency denominated equity securities held by the target fund are translated to USD.

The Fund's investment outlets undergo proper screening and evaluation in accordance with the Trustee's accreditation process. The Fund may also use financial derivatives to hedge the portfolio against market and credit risks.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. European equities returned positive performance for the month. The market recovered from a sell-off earlier in March after turmoil in Europe's banking sector stabilized following a takeover of Credit Suisse and reassurances by European leaders and policymakers that the region's banks are stable. The European Central Bank (ECB) raised its rates by 50 basis points and signaled that it will take a data-dependent approach to future policy decisions due to elevated uncertainties about inflation, economic growth, and the impact of restrictive monetary policies on demand. Eurozone headline inflation subsequently fell to 6.9% year-on-year in March from 8.5% in February due to a decline in energy prices. Europe's manufacturing sector continued to contract in March but the services sector registered its strongest expansion since May.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 0.08% in March, lagging the benchmark by 229 basis points. Security selection in health care, communication services and financials detracted from performance.

Fund Strategy. We continue to see inflationary pressures, energy security and geopolitical risks as key concerns for the region. We are monitoring how central banks and governments are tackling high inflation and recessionary risks, keeping an eye out for the fallout on real estate and financials, and how the impact of energy and gas supplies will affect the economic situation in Europe. The fund will continue to invest in companies with compelling structural growth, solid competitive positioning and attractive valuations, which can potentially lead to higher returns and help mitigate downside risk given the current market environment.
