OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equities rose in July. Markets were encouraged by cooling inflation across most global economies, supporting views that major central banks are approaching the end of their rate-hiking cycles. Labor markets remained resilient, although risk sentiment was constrained by tighter monetary policy and broadly weaker manufacturing data. Sovereign yields ended broadly higher and major central banks' policy paths remained restrictive to counter elevated inflation.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 0.91% for the month. Within global equities, from a sector perspective, all sectors generated positive returns, led by financials and information technology. Within global fixed income, investment-grade and high-yield credit were the main drivers of performance as spreads tightened.

Fund Strategy. The global economy has remained resilient, shrugging off the potential for a US banking crisis while continuing to ride the positive generative AI sentiment and the potential for a soft landing. However, we continue to expect tighter credit conditions and restrictive monetary policy to take a toll on the economy, leading us to favor defensive fixed income over equities and growth fixed income. Within equities, we continue to focus on quality, preferring companies with pricing power, long-term margin stability and health balance sheets that can withstand inflationary and balance-sheet pressures. Within fixed income, we have an improved outlook on investment grade credit which we believe will be better positioned to weather economic troubles and maintain a neutral stance. Finally, we believe this market environment to be supportive of security selection and active management. Against this backdrop, income investors will be best served through a highly diversified portfolio of multi-asset income producing assets that can be dynamically adjusted as market conditions evolve.
