OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equity markets rebounded in June. Market sentiment improved on the back of resilient US economic data, easing inflation and a hawkish pause in US monetary policy. The US Federal Reserve kept policy rates unchanged for the month but reiterated their commitment on bringing inflation back to target. Despite the rate hike pause, comments from Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell signalled a hawkish tone and the updated Fed dot plot reflected two quarter-point increases in interest rates by end-2023. Softening inflation data has supported the case for the Fed pause as US inflation eased in May, decelerating to 4% year-on-year from 4.9% in April due to lower energy prices. Across regional markets, European and Chinese equities underperformed broader equity indices amid weaker growth and manufacturing activity. On the positive side, Japanese equities continued its rally driven by stronger imports.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 1.14% for the month. Within global equities, from a sector perspective, information technology and financials drove positive performance. Within global fixed income, investment-grade and high-yield credit were the main drivers of performance as spreads tightened.

Fund Strategy. The global economy has remained resilient, shrugging off the potential for a US banking crisis while continuing to ride the positive generative AI sentiment and the potential for a soft landing. However, we continue to expect tighter credit conditions and restrictive policy to take a toll on the economy, leading us to favor defensive fixed income over equities and growth fixed income. Within equities, we continue to focus on quality, preferring companies with pricing power, long-term margin stability and health balance sheets that can withstand inflationary and balance-sheet pressures. Within fixed income, we have an improved outlook on investment grade credit which we believe will be better positioned to weather economic troubles and are now neutral. Finally, we believe this market environment to be supportive of security selection and active management. Against this backdrop, income investors will be best served through a highly diversified portfolio of multi-asset income producing assets that can be dynamically adjusted as market conditions evolve.
