KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Market/Price Risk: Investors are exposed to adverse changes in the prices of large cap stocks in the Eurozone, which may be brought about by adverse market conditions, unfavorable company earnings and valuations, and negative developments in the political and economic conditions of countries where investee companies are domiciled.

Liquidity Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the target fund's inability to convert security holdings to cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a highly disadvantageous price due to limited participants in the market, low trading volumes, market disruptions, among others.

Country Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss arising from negative developments in the political, economic and social conditions of countries, primarily in Europe, which may adversely affect the value of the feeder fund.

FX Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss from a decline in the market value of the target fund when the market value of EUR denominated equity securities held by the target fund are translated to USD.

The Fund's investment outlets undergo proper screening and evaluation in accordance with the Trustee's accreditation process. The Fund may also use financial derivatives to hedge the portfolio against market and credit risks.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. European equities increase in July. Eurozone second-quarter GDP grew slightly more than expected at 0.3% compared to the first quarter, supported by higher real incomes and public spending. An unexpected contraction in Germany's GDP weighed on Europe's economy, while recent business surveys indicated that the region's outlook is clouded by geopolitical tensions, weaker global growth, and fragile consumer confidence. The HCOB Flash Eurozone Composite PMI fell to a five-month low of 50.1 in July, from 50.9 in June, pointing to near stagnation in private sector activity. Employment was unchanged amid concerns that geopolitical instability and rapid wage increases will keep pushing up prices. Eurozone headline inflation unexpectedly edged up 2.6% annually in July, from 2.5% in June, while core inflation was stable at 2.9%, casting some doubt on whether the ECB will cut interest rates in September. Second-quarter earnings for companies in the STOXX 600 Index are forecast to increase by 1.9% from a year earlier. In the UK, the Labour Party's landslide victory in the general election ushered in a new period of political stability. The UK economy grew 0.4% in May, twice the expected pace. In France, the left-wing alliance won the most parliamentary seats in legislative elections. However, no one group won an absolute majority, resulting in a fragmented political landscape with no clear path toward a new government. The MSCI Europe Index returned 1.2% over the month. Within the index, seven out of 11 sectors rose for the period. Utilities and financials were the top performing sectors, while information technology and consumer discretionary were the bottom performing sectors over the period.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 5.04% in July, outperforming the benchmark. Security selection was the primary driver of relative outperformance Fund Strategy. European markets advanced in July despite a slowdown in European economic momentum and slightly higher inflation numbers. How central banks will balance inflation, growth and recession risk will be important going forward with the level of longer-term yields a key element to watch. While the second round of the French parliamentary elections resulted in a hung parliament, the outcome was much better than expected after the first round of voting, as moderates fared much better. The British elections ended with a landslide win for Labor, which immediately set out a growth focused economic agenda. The war in Ukraine and the Middle East also continue to impact broader market volatility. The fund will continue to assess companies for their long-term fundamental attractiveness based on the fund's investment criteria and incorporating the implications a recession may have on this.

LIST OF PROSPECTIVE INVESTMENTS

The following are among the Fund's approved investment outlets, wherein the Trustee intends to invest depending on strategy, availability, or other market-driven circumstances:

Such collective investment scheme must not have any investment exposure in other collective investment schemes.

Provided, that, a financial instrument is regarded as tradable if two-way prices are quoted, readily available or regularly available from an exchange, dealer, broker, industry group, pricing service or regulatory agency, and those prices represent actual and regularly occurring market transactions on an arm's length basis.
- (c) Primarily short-term tradable fixed-income instruments issued, underwritten, or otherwise dealt by BPI and/or any of its subsidiaries, affiliates, their successors-in-interest or assignees, their directors, officers, stockholders, and related interest, and any of their trust and fund managed accounts, under such terms and conditions as the Trustee may deem to be in the best interest of the Fund; and, any such other instruments as may be allowed under BSP regulations.
