KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Market/Price Risk: Investors are exposed to adverse changes in the prices of foreign currency denominated fixed income collective schemes (target funds), due to a rise in interest rates as a result of adverse market conditions, unfavorable developments in the political and economic conditions of countries where the underlying securities of the target funds are issued or traded, or other issuer-specific factors.

Liquidity Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the inability of the target funds to convert security holdings to cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a highly disadvantageous price due to limited participants in the market, low trading volumes or market disruptions, among others.

Country Risk Investors are exposed to the risk of loss arising from negative developments in the political, economic and social conditions of the focus countries of the target fund which may adversely affect its value.

FX Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss from a decline in the fund value when the market value of foreign currency denominated target funds are translated to USD.

The Fund's investment outlets undergo proper screening and evaluation in accordance with the Trustee's accreditation process. The Fund may also use financial derivatives to hedge the portfolio against market and credit risks.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global fixed income markets faced downward pressures in February, with the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index declining by 1.3%. US inflation continued its downward trend, posting 3.1% year-on-year in January. The US Federal Reserve kept its policy rates steady, but Fed officials reiterated their cautious stance on cutting policy rates too early.

Yields rose as markets adjust from its aggressive rate cut expectations from 5-6 quarter-point rate cuts at start of the year to 3 by end of February. The US Yield curve steepened with the 2-year, 10-year and 30-year yields rising by 41, 34 and 21 basis points, ending the month at 4.62%, 4.26% and 4.38%, respectively. Riskier fixed income indices outperformed comparable government bonds, as spreads narrowed amid the shift in sentiment for risk assets. Within credit markets, high-yield and emerging-market debt outperformed investment-grade bonds, with the investment-grade index down 1.5% for the month, while US high-yield and emerging-markets indices gained 0.3% and 0.4% in the same period, respectively.

Fund Performance. The fund returned -0.60%, outperforming the benchmark by 66 basis points. Allocation in corporate bonds helped performance.

Fund Strategy. We expect fixed-income markets to remain volatile in the near term but are of the view that while markets have already priced in peak interest rates and expectations of rate cuts, interest rates will continue to be elevated as inflation remains above the central banks targets. Against this backdrop, the fund will continue to have a balanced allocation of safe fixed income assets (e.g. government bonds and high rated bonds) and riskier fixed income assets such as corporate and EM bonds for yield enhancement. In terms of corporate bonds, we continue to be selective on issuers with a preference for higher quality names in both investment grade and non-investment grade sectors.
