OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The BPI Money Market Index returned 0.36% in January, while benchmark short-term government yields rose by 25 basis points (bps) on average. Average daily trading volume for the month amounted to PHP20.98 billion higher than December's PHP15.48 billion with trades mostly seen on the long end of the curve.

The Bureau of the Treasury (BTr) held five Treasury Bill auctions in January. The 91-day, 182-day, and 364-day papers were fully awarded at average yields of 5.398%, 5.810%, and 6.076%, respectively. The average weekly offering of BSP Bills for January rose to PHP107.5 billion and PHP67.5 billion for the 28-day and 56-day paper, respectively. Over the course of January, a total of Php586 billion worth of 28- and 56-day BSP Bills were issued at weighted average yields of 6.758% and 6.756%, respectively.

In the local space, December headline inflation fell sharply to 3.9% year-on-year from previous month's 4.1%. Despite the December figure being the slowest print since February 2022, average inflation for 2023 concluded at 6%, which is still above the BSP's target range of 2% to 4%. The slowdown was mainly driven by easing inflation from most commodity groups such as housing, water, electricity, gas, and other fuels. Although price pressures are starting to ease, the BSP noted the unlikelihood of cutting policy rates for the first half of the year due to risks of supply shocks, consistent with the tones of the FED and other central banks.

Fund Performance. The Fund returned 0.00% during the month of January, underperforming its benchmark by 38 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The Fund continues to maintain its holdings in short duration government securities. Expectations of rising rates moving forward may provide an opportunity for better yielding investment outlets.
