Market Review. The JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) Philippines lost 0.85% in January as Philippine dollar-denominated bonds tracked movements in US Treasuries.

Global bonds experienced heightened volatility in January as market participants tempered their policy rate cut expectations due to robust US economic data and hawkish comments from US Federal Reserve (Fed) officials. US economic growth beat expectations, expanding by 3.3% in the fourth quarter of 2023, while latest employment and wage growth data continued to suggest a tight labor market.

In December, US consumer price index (CPI) inflation rose by 3.4%, faster than the 3.2% median estimate and the 3.1% recorded in November. Meanwhile, core personal consumption expenditure (PCE) index inflation, the Fed's preferred gauge, fell to 2.9%, the slowest since April 2021. Despite recent progress in inflation, Fed Chairman Jerome Powell emphasized the need to see more data to gain greater confidence that inflation is sustainably moving towards the 2% target before considering policy rate cuts. Consequently, the 10-year US Treasury benchmark yield spiked from 3.88% to as high as 4.18% before closing the month three basis points higher at 3.91%.

On the domestic front, inflation for December inched down to 3.9%, settling within the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP)'s target range for the first time in nearly two years. This figure, in line with market expectations, was brought about by declining fuel and vegetable prices. Similar to the Fed's stance, BSP Governor Eli Remolona mentioned that while inflation trend is on the right track, the start of policy rate cuts is possible but unlikely to commence in the first half of 2024. He also highlighted that supply shocks still pose risks, especially with the El Nino phenomenon.

Fund Performance. The Fund returned 0.41% for the month, 6 basis points below its benchmark.

Fund Strategy. The Fund will maintain its duration of less than 1. Expectations of rising rates moving forward may provide an opportunity for better yielding investment outlets.
