KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Market/Price Risk:	Investors are exposed to adverse changes in the prices of foreign currency denominated fixed income collective schemes (target funds), due to a rise in interest rates as a result of adverse market conditions, unfavorable developments in the political and economic conditions of countries where the underlying securities of the target funds are issued or traded, or other issuer-specific factors.
Liquidity Risk:	Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the inability of the target funds to convert security holdings to cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a highly disadvantageous price due to limited participants in the market, low trading volumes or market disruptions, among others.
Country Risk:	Investors are exposed to the risk of loss arising from negative developments in the political, economic and social conditions of the focus countries of the target fund which may adversely affect its value.
FX Risk:	Investors are exposed to the risk of loss from a decline in the fund value when the market value of foreign currency denominated target funds are translated to USD.

The Fund's investment outlets undergo proper screening and evaluation in accordance with the Trustee's accreditation process. The Fund may also use financial derivatives to hedge the portfolio against market and credit risks.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. In June 2025, global fixed income markets experienced a notable steepening of yield curves, reflecting mixed investor sentiment and divergent central bank actions. U.S. Treasuries rallied following dovish commentary from the Federal Reserve and the release of softer-than-expected economic data. This resulted in a bull-steepening of the yield curve, with yields declining across maturities. In contrast, Japanese Government Bonds bear-steepened as long-term yields rose, driven by weak demand in the 20-year auction. During its June policy meeting, the Federal Reserve maintained its target rate at 4.25%–4.50%, signaling a cautious stance amid ongoing economic uncertainty. Chair Jerome Powell reiterated the Fed's wait-and-see approach, particularly in assessing the inflationary implications of recent tariff measures. Geopolitical tensions intensified mid-month when Israel launched airstrikes on Iranian infrastructure, prompting U.S. military involvement and triggering a flight to safe-haven assets. In the Philippines, the dollar-denominated yield curve also bull-steepened, mirroring movements in U.S. Treasuries. The JP Morgan Asia Credit Index – Philippines posted a monthly return of 1.10%, supported by favorable external conditions and improved investor sentiment.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 1.65% in June, underperforming the benchmark by 24 basis points. Security selection within the fund detracted from performance.

Fund Strategy. Developed market central banks, US in particular, are likely to keep rates high for longer and more volatility may be seen in long duration. Central bank officials remain data-driven emphasizing the uncertainty regarding the government policy and its effects on the economy. Given expectations of near-term volatility, we remain cautious on managing duration risk and remain selective in credit. The fund will continue to have a balanced allocation of safe fixed income assets (e.g. government bonds and high rated bonds) and riskier fixed income assets such as corporate and EM bonds for yield enhancement. In terms of corporate bonds, we continue to be selective on issuers with a preference for higher quality names in both investment grade and non-investment grade sectors.
