KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Market/Price Risk: Investors are exposed to adverse changes in the prices of foreign currency denominated fixed income collective schemes (target funds), due to a rise in interest rates as a result of adverse market conditions, unfavorable developments in the political and economic conditions of countries where the underlying securities of the target funds are issued or traded, or other issuer-specific factors.

Liquidity Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the inability of the target funds to convert security holdings to cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a highly disadvantageous price due to limited participants in the market, low trading volumes, market disruptions, among others.

Country Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss arising from negative developments in the political, economic and social conditions of the focus countries of the target fund which may adversely affect its value.

FX Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss from a decline in the fund value when the market value of foreign currency denominated target funds are translated to USD.

The Fund's investment outlets undergo proper screening and evaluation in accordance with the Trustee's accreditation process. The Fund may also use financial derivatives to hedge the portfolio against market and credit risks.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global fixed income assets recovered in November as expectations for interest rate cuts gained momentum. Early in the month, yields were elevated after US Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell said further cuts were not guaranteed, making investors cautious about a third consecutive cut at the December meeting.

As the month progressed, sentiment shifted towards a December rate cut. Softer economic data including weaker retail sales, downward revisions in jobs growth, and unemployment rising to a four-year high of 4.4% supported the case for easing. Dovish comments from key Fed officials also reinforced these expectations, helping bond markets rebound.

Outside the US, bond yield movements were mixed. Germany's 10-year Bund ended at 2.69% (+5 bps), the UK's 10-year Gilt at 4.44% (+3 bps), and Japan's 10-year government bond at 1.81% (+14 bps). Japan stood out as yields climbed sharply after the Bank of Japan signaled possible rate hikes amid inflation rising to 2.8%, above the 2.4% forecast. In the Philippines, dollar-denominated bond yields rose after GDP growth came in at 4%, well below expectations. The JP Morgan Asia Credit Index – Philippines posted a negative return of 0.25%.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 0.75% in November, outperforming the benchmark by 60 basis points. Security selection within the fund helped performance.

Fund Strategy. Developed market central banks, US in particular, are likely to keep rates high for longer and more volatility may be seen in long duration. Central bank officials remain data-driven emphasizing the uncertainty regarding the government policy and its effects on the economy. Given expectations of near-term volatility, we remain cautious on managing duration risk and remain selective in credit. The fund will continue to have a balanced allocation of safe fixed income assets (e.g. government bonds and high rated bonds) and riskier fixed income assets such as corporate and EM bonds for yield enhancement. In terms of corporate bonds, we continue to be selective on issuers with a preference for higher quality names in both investment grade and non-investment grade sectors.
