⁶ BENCHMARK INFORMATION

Name: MSCI All Country World Index Net Total Return USD Index

Description and Key Characteristics: The MSCI ACWI Index, MSCI's flagship global equity index, is designed to represent performance for the full opportunity set of large- and mid-cap stocks across 23 developed and 24 Emerging Markets. With 2,757 constituents, the index covers approximately 85% of the global investable equity opportunity set.

The index is based on the MSCI Global Investable Market Indexes (GIMI) Methodology —a comprehensive and consistent approach to index construction that allows for meaningful global views and cross regional comparisons across all market capitalization size, sector and style segments and combinations. This methodology aims to provide exhaustive coverage of the relevant investment opportunity set with a strong emphasis on index liquidity, investability and replicability

The MSCI Total Return Indices measure the market performance, including price performance and income from regular cash distributions (cash dividend payments or capital repayments). MSCI's Daily Total Return (DTR) methodology reinvests regular cash distributions in indices on the ex-date of such distributions.

Information about the benchmark may be accessed through MSCI. Alternatively, participants may request information from BPI Wealth at bpiwealth.com.ph.

It is hereby disclosed that any deviations between the UITF's risk-return profile or characteristics and those of the designated benchmark have been reasonably justified and duly approved by the Board of Directors, in accordance with fiduciary and regulatory obligations.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equities advanced in January, extending recent momentum despite elevated valuation levels and strong prior-year performance. The MSCI ACWI rose 3.0%, supported by broad participation across regions, while the Nasdaq 100 gained 1.3%. The S&P 500 experienced intra-month volatility but recovered to close just below the 7,000 level, reflecting continued resilience following outsized gains over the past several years. Sector performance was mixed, with leadership rotating toward cyclical and commodity-linked areas. Materials led gains, rising 18%, followed by Energy up 10.6%, supported by improving demand expectations. Industrials also delivered a strong start to the year, advancing 9.7%, while Communication Services and Consumer Discretionary sectors posted more moderate gains. Technology shares were broadly flat during the month, consolidating after an extended period of outperformance. Earnings expectations remain uneven across sectors, with technology- and communication-oriented industries expected to contribute disproportionately to near-term profit growth. Smaller and more domestically focused companies continue to lag, though consensus forecasts point to positive earnings growth across all sectors by 2026, suggesting a gradual broadening of the earnings cycle. Developed European equities also recorded solid gains in January. The STOXX Europe 600 rose 2.5%, supported by earnings updates and resilient macroeconomic data. Major regional benchmarks ended the month higher, reflecting improved investor confidence in the region's growth outlook. Asia-Pacific equities broadly advanced during the month. Japanese equities reached record highs mid-January, supported by currency dynamics and continued optimism around corporate reforms and technology exposure, before moderating toward month-end. South Korean equities also performed strongly, with the KOSPI reaching all-time closing highs amid sustained investor interest in export-oriented and semiconductor-related sectors.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 3.46% in January, outperforming the benchmark by 110 basis points. Security selection within the fund detracted performance.

Fund Strategy. We remain positive on global equities hinged on a resilient global economy despite tariff threats, above-trend earnings growth on large caps, an AI investment boom, and less policy risk with the Fed's rate cut path supportive of easing fiscal and monetary policy on other economies. We prefer broadening global equities exposure with preference for Asia and Asia Emerging Markets which will provide robust upside benefitting from attractive valuations, rising domestic liquidity, and improving macro momentum. Tech plays in EM will benefit from the overall AI investment cycle, while fiscal policies will support domestic growth.
