⁶ BENCHMARK INFORMATION

Name: MSCI All Country World Index Net Total Return USD Index

Description and Key Characteristics: The MSCI ACWI Index, MSCI's flagship global equity index, is designed to represent performance for the full opportunity set of large- and mid-cap stocks across 23 developed and 24 Emerging Markets. With 2,757 constituents, the index covers approximately 85% of the global investable equity opportunity set.

The index is based on the MSCI Global Investable Market Indexes (GIMI) Methodology —a comprehensive and consistent approach to index construction that allows for meaningful global views and cross regional comparisons across all market capitalization size, sector and style segments and combinations. This methodology aims to provide exhaustive coverage of the relevant investment opportunity set with a strong emphasis on index liquidity, investability and replicability

The MSCI Total Return Indices measure the market performance, including price performance and income from regular cash distributions (cash dividend payments or capital repayments). MSCI's Daily Total Return (DTR) methodology reinvests regular cash distributions in indices on the ex-date of such distributions.

Information about the benchmark may be accessed through MSCI. Alternatively, participants may request information from BPI Wealth at bpiwealth.com.ph.

It is hereby disclosed that any deviations between the UITF's risk-return profile or characteristics and those of the designated benchmark have been reasonably justified and duly approved by the Board of Directors, in accordance with fiduciary and regulatory obligations.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equities advanced strongly in May 2026, with the AI investment cycle once again the dominant driver as markets absorbed a mid-month inflation scare and sustained geopolitical uncertainty around the Iran conflict. The S&P 500 gained 5.3% over the period, notching its ninth consecutive weekly advance by month-end — the longest winning streak since 2023 — powered by blockbuster earnings and raised outlooks from AMD, Dell, and Micron, the latter surging to a $1 trillion market cap in its best month since 1985. A mid-month bond selloff and oil spike briefly rattled risk assets, with emerging markets selling off sharply on May 15 on inflation and dollar-strength concerns, before markets recovered swiftly as ceasefire optimism re-emerged and the AI narrative reasserted itself. Leadership was concentrated in AI-linked semiconductors, with the breadth of the rally notably narrower than April's broad-based rebound.

Regionally, Japan's Nikkei 225 led with an 11.9% gain, catching up to the global tech rally, while MSCI Asia Pacific surged 8.5% and MSCI Emerging Markets rose 9.7%, anchored by South Korea's Kospi — the world's top-performing benchmark year-to-date — driven by SK Hynix and the broader AI hardware supply chain. European equities lagged, with the Euro Stoxx 50 up 3.9%, as the region remained more sensitive to oil price swings than global peers.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 5.30% in May, outperforming the benchmark by 14 basis points. Security selection within the fund helped improve performance.

Fund Strategy. The constructive stance on global equities is reinforced by May's price action, with earnings momentum and the AI capex cycle remaining the primary drivers. The tilt toward emerging markets and Asia continues to be supported by strong relative performance, though oil-driven inflation risks and bond market repricing remain live tail risks for the broader rally.
