OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equities mildly rose in February. Geopolitical tensions surged after the US and Israel commenced military strikes on Iran, killing Iranian Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei and other senior leaders of the Islamic Republic's regime. These actions triggered retaliatory attacks by Iran across the Middle East, including civilian infrastructure within Gulf Cooperation Council states. The unknown scale and duration of the conflict added new risks for the global economy and upended energy markets, fueling anxiety about a potential resurgence in inflation across the globe.

Monetary policy continued to diverge among key central banks. The Reserve Bank of Australia raised interest rates due to a solid economy and renewed inflation pressures; the European Central Bank signaled a prolonged pause in rate cuts amid significantly below-forecast inflation; the Bank of Japan is on track to gradually tighten policy; and the Bank of England, and the US Federal Reserve remained on course to ease policy rates this year. The US Supreme Court struck down tariffs that President Donald Trump imposed under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (IEEPA), including the April 2025 "reciprocal" tariffs. However, the US government quickly replaced the invalidated tariffs with a new 10% global tariff to maintain its protectionist trade agenda. Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi led her Liberal Democratic Party to a landslide victory in a snap election, securing a supermajority in Parliament that gives her a stronger mandate to implement her conservative agenda.

The MSCI World Health Care NET returned 2.9% over the month. Within the index, three out of four sectors rose over the period. Biopharma large cap and biopharma mid cap were the top performing sectors, while medical technology and health care services were the bottom performing sectors over the period.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 2.06% in February, lagging the benchmark by 83 basis points.

Fund Strategy. Biopharma remains a strong source of innovation across multiple areas, including cardiometabolic disease, oncology, and genetic medicines. The potential for continued relative outperformance is supported by improving earnings revisions, a catalyst-rich clinical calendar, and sustained M&A activity driven by large pharmaceutical companies seeking external innovation as they confront upcoming patent expirations.

We maintain a selective yet constructive outlook for medical technology companies. Procedure volumes remain resilient, while stock performance is increasingly driven by company-specific product cycles and innovation, particularly in cardiology, robotics, and diagnostics. In addition, we expect a reacceleration in the bioproduction cycle to benefit life sciences tools companies.

Within health care services, we expect strong medical utilization trends to support acute care providers, while cyclical and structural headwinds within health insurance markets begin to ease. We also anticipate a more favorable policy environment, with improved visibility around tariffs and drug pricing and a reduced likelihood of major regulatory disruptions in the near term.

Overall, we expect stable sector fundamentals, continued M&A activity, and the normalization of utilization trends to attract increasing interest from generalist investors. We believe this backdrop creates a favorable environment for active stock selection within the health care sector.
